

Kalvarienbergstr. 21
Stühlingen
D-79780
Germany

22nd July, 2012

Her Majesty The Queen
Buckingham Palace
London SW1A 1AA
United Kingdom

Madam

First of all I would like to congratulate You on Your Diamond Jubilee. You have had the favour to reign during sixty very interesting years of world history.

Being a teacher of English at our Realschule (secondary school) here in Stühlingen/Germany, I would like to ask a question that might be slightly unusual.

Together with my colleagues we decided to take one classroom and change it to a room that will only be used for teaching, learning, speaking...English. We are convinced that this would help very much to make learning Your language more efficient, appealing and – well – more fun! In order to make obvious that this will be a special room where only English may be used, we want to call it “Little Britain”.

Now my question: would it be possible to declare this room at our school being British territory? I can imagine that this might be rather complicated in terms of international law, but it’s just meant to be a symbolic act shown for example by a certificate on the wall.

I would be very thankful if You could make my idea come true. Being a future Governor of “Little Britain in Stühlingen” I would have the honour to be, Madam, Your Majesty's humble and obedient servant.

Gerd Wiesmann

at Realschule Stühlingen
Hallauer Strasse 7
Stühlingen
D-79780
Germany

